START MEMO NOMINATING-JUSTIFICATION:

Al Scholz has been very active in the current dialogue in Saskatchewan regarding rural economic development, appropriate land use, and issues surrounding the use of water. He has been involved in organizations such as the Saskatchewan Agrivision Corporation, which recently established a provincial water council to determine Saskatchewan's water needs and to essentially "drought-proof" the economy. Al has been involved in a variety of areas with respect to rural economy in Saskatchewan, including rural population growth and retention, grain and livestock development, and resource management. He's a good listener too-Al spends a fair amount of time talking to people in rural communities, after which he writes articles about best practices and lessons learned in those communities. Outgoing and bright, Al would gain much from a study tour on water management, one of the looming environmental and economic questions of the coming decades, as well as other developments in rural economics.
